Assistant Professor Sunita Patole (College of Education, Narayangaon, Tal. Junnar, Dist. Pune) guided the students on the topic.

There is a strong bond between History and Geography, because to explain any historical event, help of geography is required. It means we cannot tell history without the geographic information. The geographical location influences the historic events. For example there is no any kind of literature sources for pre historic study. If we want to know the pre historic period, we must know the geographical knowledge of the period. The industrialization and urbanization of any city or nation is depend geography. People-why did the industrial revolution? The geographical conditions are responsible for that. Principal Dr. Mahadev Gavhane presided over the event. 80 students from the history department participated in the program.

vi. Conclusion with feedback on the program:

The students got a lot of knowledge about the importance of geography in history. They understood the interrelationships between geography and history. They came to know that the without geography the study of history is very difficult.
