Hemoglobin detection Camp

A hemoglobin test is often used to check for anemia, a condition in which your body has fewer red blood cells than normal. The anemic person's cell does not get all the oxygen they need. This was the most common problem seen in many girls in our department so, A free medical health checkup and hemoglobin detection camp for women was conducted by department of biotechnology and Emcure Pharmaceuticals for Anemia free India on 2nd Aug. The camp was inaugurated with the hands of Adv. A. N. Mane respected Santha Member Shiv Chhatrapati Shikshan Santha, Latur and Principal of college Dr. M. H. Gavhane. Dr. Sabde and his team from emcure pharma detected hemoglobin for all the girls including staff and the data were recorded for continuous monitoring (4 months) by the organizing committee.
