B) Report

i. Title: One Week Value added course on 'Financial Education for Young Citizen'

ii. Introduction : -

NISM is working to improve regulatory standards among domestic and international regulators and market participants. For players in the securities market, including regulators, it offers advanced training programs and capacity building with an emphasis on policy development, application, and compliance. The organization supports SEBI's initiative to promote financial and investor education by supporting capacity building efforts. For this, people and organizations are being chosen and trained in accordance with the standards set by SEBI.

iii. Objectives of Workshop : -

- To aware the students about finance and financial resources.
- To inform the students about modes of investment and earning money for future.
- To educate the students about advanced trends of financial education.
- To inform students about importance of finance at present and in future life.

iv. Details of Participants: 64 participants (23 Male and 41 female) completed the Programme.

Enrolled/Registered Participants = 108

Number of Participants who completed the course = 64

v. Brief Summary Of Events / Session : -

Financial education for young citizen is required because money plays significant role in life of human. Many goals in life include education, daily expenditures, family functions and future life after retirement needs to invest and earn money for future. For this value added course Dr.Brijmohan Dayma and Dr.Sarika Dayma were the resource persons. Both taught the syllabus of financial education for young citizen includes seven chapters.

Students are learned about planning finance and financial resources at present and in future. Students now know the plans of investments to get more benefits from early investments. All know that need of finance for present and future plans in life. Students also know the importance of financial education in life and as a carrier in future.
