B) Report

i) Title: Cytological Woolen Models Exhibition

ii) Introduction:

The living things are characterized by many morphological and Anatomical structures. They are also characterized by various metabolic process the plant cells have their own unique cell structure and function. The different types of functions are performed by various organ the woolen models based on Cytological structures were prepared by the students. The department of Botany organized Exhibition of these prepared woolen models vice principle Prof. S. N. Shinde inaugurated the program and other faculty members, students of UG visited to this exhibition.

iii) Objectives of the programme:

- i. To understand the detail of structure of the Cytological study.
- ii. To expand the reasons among the student about the knowledge of Cytology.
- iii. To understand the structures various cell organelles.
- iv. To maintain the relation between Teacher and Student.

iv) Details of participant: 23 (Male-07 and Female-16)
