B) Report

i. Title

Open House Day

ii. Introduction

The Department of Biotechnology organizes an Open House Day for students of XI and XII Science to provide early academic and career orientation in the field of biotechnology. The Programme includes guided laboratory visits, demonstrations of modern scientific instruments, interactive sessions with faculty and student researchers, and an overview of the biotechnology curriculum. Students gain insights into higher education and research pathways, industry-oriented skill development, and interdisciplinary applications of biotechnology. The Open House Day helps build conceptual clarity, connects school-level learning with advanced studies, encourages research-based learning, and supports informed academic and career decision-making through structured exposure and interaction.

iii. Objectives of the Programme/ Issues addressed

- To expose XI and XII science students to authentic biotechnology laboratory environments and modern scientific instruments.
- To provide clarity about biotechnology as a degree programme and its curriculum structure.
- To create awareness about higher education, research pathways, and industry-oriented career opportunities in biotechnology.
- To support informed academic decision-making by linking school-level science learning with research-based higher studies.

iv. Details of Participants

Total 100 participants (Male 41 and Female 59) have attended this program.

v. Brief Summary of Events/ Sessions

The Department of Biotechnology, RSML, organized an Open House Day 2026 that commenced at 10:00 a.m. with a formal inauguration by the Teacher In-Charge of JSPM College, Latur. This was followed by an introductory address from the Head of the Department of Biotechnology, Dr. S. S. Kulkarni, who highlighted the vision, academic activities, and achievements of the college and the department. Subsequently, Dr. S. S. Kshirasagar delivered an informative presentation on biotechnology, focusing on its basic concepts and future scope. The students were then divided into different groups to observe and understand the principles of various instrumentation facilities, attend live demonstrations of basic experiments, and engage in microscopic observations of cell phases and cellular biodiversity. In total, 88 students from different colleges, along with their faculty members, visited the department and gained valuable hands-on exposure, bridging the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical application. The programme concluded with an interactive session and feedback from participants, marking the event as a successful and enriching academic experience.

vi. Conclusion, with Feedback on the Programme

The Open House Day was successfully conducted and achieved its intended objectives of providing academic exposure and practical insight to XI and XII science students. The participants appreciated the well-organized sessions, informative presentations, laboratory visits, and live demonstrations, which helped them better understand biotechnology concepts and career opportunities. Overall feedback from students and faculty was highly positive, highlighting the programme as informative, interactive, and effective in bridging the gap between theoretical learning and practical application.
